

Hi, Dallas Families!

My name is Matt Jurick and I am the director of technology for Dallas School District. I am extremely happy to be here in this incredible community working with all of you, your students, and our amazing school staff.

As we near the halfway point of the school year, we would like to reach out and touch base on the topic of our 1:1 technology program which enabled us to loan every K-3 student an iPad and every 4-12 student a Chromebook for the school year.

As you may recall, prior to receiving the device for your student, you signed a form agreeing to the terms of the program (see enclosed). Overall, we have done very well with the number of damaged or missing devices—thank you for your and your students' careful treatment of this equipment.

We also wanted to provide some insights into some of the more common fines associated with damaged or missing devices or components (see enclosed). Part of the agreement was that parents/guardians accept responsibility for paying for damages or replacements as a result of negligence or abuse. If your student's device was returned to the school for one of these reasons, or you have requested a replacement charger or case, your student's school office will be in touch in the coming weeks to let you know the charges to repair/replace.

Fines assessed will be added to the student's eSchool account and a summary invoice will be made available if there are fines due.

We understand there are so many difficulties right now, and it is our hope that we can continue to help support your students' technology needs. To do so, we need to be able to continue maintaining our limited supply of student devices and chargers. Your understanding and cooperation is greatly appreciated.

As a reminder, if you need technical assistance with your district-issued device or regarding one of the digital learning systems we are implementing, please email us at StudentTechnology@dsd2.org and we will be sure to look into it.

Sincerely yours,

1:1 Learning Technology Initiative (LTI) Damage Charges

This equipment is on loan from Dallas School District during the 2020-2021 school year.

At the time of issuance, the parent/guardian signed the LTI Agreement which states that the parents/guardians will be responsible for charges associated to missing and/or damaged devices up to a total of $250 (total replacement of a district-issued iPad or Chromebook). The most-common lesser charges are listed below:

- Total Replacement of Device (in the event the iPad or Chromebook is totally destroyed or missing entirely) is $250. This is just for the device and does not include the cost to replace the accessories included (charging cable/block/adaptor and case).

iPads

Charging Cable	$20
Charging Block	$20
Case	$50

Chromebooks

Charging Adapter	$30
Screen	$65
Keyboard	$30
Camera Lens Cover	$5

- iPad damages resulting from negligence/abuse are related to cracked/shattered screens and dented casings. In this situation, the cost to repair is more expensive than the cost to replace, so for all damaged iPads the repair/replace cost is $250.
- Chromebooks are more inexpensive to individually repair so in instances of cracked/damaged Chromebook screens or damaged keyboards (including removed keys) we can replace those individual parts.
- Per the signed LTI Agreement, all devices and charging accessories belong to Dallas School District and are on loan to students for the duration of the active enrolled school year. All district-issued devices and accessories must be returned to the school at the end of the active enrolled school year or charges will be assessed to parents/guardians to replace the missing assets.
